SOVIET HOPES TO SEPARATE POWERS AT HAGUE MEET

Genoa Tactics Are To Be Repeated In Full

AIM AT FRANCE

Economic Advantage Will Be Goal Of Delegates

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, June 19.—A Moscow despatch reports that it is reliably stated that the Russian delegation to the Hague Conference, comprising MM. Litvinoff, Rakovsky, Krestinsky, Sokolnikoff and Krassin, will follow the same tactics as it did at Genoa and endeavor to accentuate the differences between the Great Powers of the Entente, especialy Great Britain and France, in order to enable negotiations for separate treaties with the Powers. The utmost concessions will be made to secure an economic agreement with Great Britain.

The delegation will also seek to bring up a discussion of Russian rights in the coastal region of East Siberia and protest against the alleged support of the anti-Bolshevist Government there by the United States, Great Britain and Japan.

London, June 17.—There will be discussions between Mr. Lloyd George and M. Poincare on Monday after the Premier's luncheon in honor of the visitors. The discussions will necessarily be limited in scope as M. Poincare will probably return to Paris the same day but it is believed that they will include the questions of the Near East, the Hague Conference and German Reparations.

French press comments today state that the whole of France ardently hopes that the two Premiers will not miss an opportunity of dissipating prejudices and misunderstandings.

London, June 17.—Premier and Mme. Poincare and Marshal Petain this afternoon witnessed the Verdun Challenge Cup polo match at Ranelagh, when England beat France by eight goals to six.

The London Ladies' Committee of the British League of Help this evening entertained the distinguished French visitors to a banquet at the Hotel Cecil presided over by Lord Derby. M. Poincare, in the course of a speech, referred gratefully to the adoption of French towns and villages as an emblem of British friendship.

London, June 18.—Growing importance is attached to tomorrow's discussions between M. Poincare and Mr. Lloyd George at which the former is credited with the intention of raising the subject of the Anglo-French pact which has been in abeyance since the Cannes Conference and also the question of Tangiers where France is desirous of extending her sphere of influence but into which consideration of Britain's wish not to weaken Gibralter enters.

A four-party conference between England, France, Spain and the Sultan of Morocco is foreshadowed.

M. Poincare, at a banquet at Hotel Cecil, said that he found Anglo-French friendship as living and strong as ever here.

Lords Deny Seat To Lady Rhondda

VISCOUNTESS Rhondda, wealthiest woman in the British Empire, wife of Sir Humphrey Mackworth, is not entitled to a seat in the British House of Lords, the Committee on Privileges decided by a vote of 20 to 4. The decision came as a great surprise, as the previous action of the Upper House of Parliament indicated her claim to a seat would be granted. Twenty-six other Peeresses in their own right would have applied for seats had her application been granted. The Viscountess is barred from the House of Commons because of her title.

Representatives of the American, British, Chinese, French and Japanese Chambers of Commerce, numbering nearly one hundred prominent Shanghai business men, are in Nantungchow today to take part in the celebration of the seventieth birthday of Mr. Chang Chien, China's foremost industrial magnate. The celebration started yesterday and will continue for three days. It was arranged by the Self-Government Association, the Chamber of Commerce, the Agricultural Association, and the Educational Association of Nantungchow.

The American group is made up of Julean Arnold, American Commercial Attache, P. G. Lyman, Standard Oil Co., P. P. Whitham, Asia Development Co., T. E. Doremus, E. I. Du Pont Nemours Export Co., F. J. Raven, American Oriental Banking Corporation, H. A. Wiley, American Foreign Insurance Association, C. J. McKnight, Liggett and Myers Tobacco Co., D. J. Lewis, Secretary American Chamber of Commerce, and Lloyd Lehrbas of The Evening Star.

The French delegation is composed of J. Fredet, Secretary French Chamber of Commerce, Ch. Maybon, Institut Franco-Chinois de Commerce et d'Industrie and P. Legendre, Secretary French Municipal Council.

The British delegation includes H. H. Rose, H. M. Commercial Counsellor of Legation, A. W. Burkill, A. R. Burkill and Sons, P. W. Massey, Reiss and Co., A. Rose, British American Tobacco Co., G. L. Wilson, Union Club of China and E. M. Gull, Secretary British Chamber of Commerce.

Among the prominent Chinese who are also assisting in the celebration are Paul P. K. Young, Fobes Company, K. L. Kwong, Commercial Press, C. P. Chow, Hwei Hai Industrial Bank and T. W. Shen, the China Evening Post.

Chang Chien is recognised by both Chinese and foreigners as the greatest industrial leader in China. He was born in Tungchow, Kiangsu, and after many years of continous work has transformed his native place into a modern industrial town without a single beggar. Everyone works and everyone is prosperous. Mr. Chang is also a noted scholar and has held several important offices both under the Empire and the Republic. He likewise has declined cabinet appointments several times, including the Premiership.

In 1914 he accepted the position of Advisor to the Board of Commerce in order to assist in the fostering of industry and commerce, and under the viceroyship of Laing Kiang organised a spinning and weaving mill with a capital of Tls. 1,000,000. Later he organised a flour mill, oil mill, iron works, silk filature and Ta Teh Steam Navigation Company. He was next entrusted with the organisation of a weaving mill, spinning mill, hemp mill, and silk filature at Wuchang, and then devoted his energies to the colonisation of Manchuria by poor people.

Two of his other pet projects were working for the Huai River conservancy and the formation of Sino-American enterprises. In 1908 he entered politics by becoming chairman of the Kiangsu Provincial Assembly and in 1911 when the revolution broke out in Wuchang, was elected Governor of Kiangsu. Later he was appointed Pacification Commissioner of Kiangsu by Yuan Shih-kai, then Imperial Prime Minister, and a little later Minister of Commerce.

Chang Chien also became the first Minister of Industry, controlling salt affairs concurrently, when the provisional government was established at Nanking, and after the unification of the country at that time organised, with three others, the Tungyihtang. In succession Mr. Chang then served as director-general of the Hwai-ho Conservancy Bureau, Minister of Industry and Commerce, and Agriculture and Forestry, and director-general of the National Conservancy Bureau. When Yuan Shih-kai made himself Emperor he made Mr. Chang one of the "Four Friends of Sungshan."

RAIL CHIEF OUT AFTER FAILURE TO MEET LOAN

Shanghai-Nanking Managing Director Tenders Resignation To Peking

EWO BILL UNPAID

Political Situation Brings Anxiety In Military Circles In Shanghai

Mr. C. P. Yin, managing-director of the Shanghai-Nanking Railway and Shanghai-Hangchow Railway, has tendered his resignation as a result of the pressure brought to bear upon on account of the failure of the administration to meet with certain financial obligations to its British creditors, for whom Jardine, Matheson and Co. are agents.

It is understood that certain payments to the agents fell due last month and the Ministry of Communications defaulted. Negotiations took place in Peking between Minister Kao En-hung and the representative of the company but no satisfactory arrangement was reached. The creditors threatened to execute the terms of the original loan by removing the managing-director and create a board of directors to administer the affairs of the road. The foreign staff of the railway is said to be preparing for the transfer of the executive power to the board and Director Yin felt the necessity of tendering his resignation.

Meanwhile anxiety is freely expressed in military circles in Nanking and Shanghai in view of the political situation. Both Defence Commissioner Ho Feng-lin of Shanghai and Tuchun Chi Shih-yuan of Nanking have wired to Peking for the early settlement of the matter.

Russ Propaganda Fund 30,000,000 Roubles Shy, Charge

(Reuter's Service)

Helsingfors, June 19.—The Executive of the Russian Communist party, in revising the accounts of the propaganda fund of the Third Internationale, has found that no accounts have been kept for a sum of 30,000,000 gold roubles.

M. Zinovieff, who had charge of the fund, at first refused to give any details, but afterwards said that 3,000,000 gold roubles had been used in connection with the Genoa Conference, 7,000,000 to support Indian nationalists against Great Britain and the remainder to subsidise revolutionists in border states of Germany and Italy.

The Executive distrusts M. Zinovieff's explanation and suspects that the money was spent for quite different purposes.

EX-MANAGER OF BANQUE FACES DOUBLE CHARGE

Pernotte Accused Of Unethical Conduct, And Of Fraud

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, June 19.—The charges against M. Pernotte which the Eleventh Correctional Tribunal are investigating relate to two different matters. First, it is alleged that M. Pernotte had a bonus of 200,000 francs voted him by the Directors of the Banque Industrielle de Chine on January 16, 1920, credited to his account in taels at the special rate of three francs accorded to Colonial officials and when the tael reached 22 francs in April 1920 he transferred the sum to France so that the original 200,000 francs became 1,350,000 francs. The expert appointed by the Government to examine the accounts of the Bank decided that this was a breach of trust and the Examining Magistrate concurred. Secondly, M. Pernotte is charged with swindling in connection with the issue of 12,000,000 francs worth of bonds by the Societe Commerciale et Maritime du Pacifique which was to have been guaranteed by the purchase of ships or by mortgages but it is stated that it was placed in the general funds of the Banque Industrielle de Chine which paid the Societe five percent.

M. Pernotte denies the charges. As regards the conversion of the 200,000 francs he states that he was content with a low salary until the Bank was prosperous and he then asked for arrears which were represented by the 200,000 francs voted him and he converted this into taels as he always converted the rest of his salary when he was Manager of the Bank in Peking. As regards the second charge M. Pernotte states that when he left the Bank the bonds were covered to the extent of 7,500,000 francs by mortgages and by 4,000,000 francs still in the Bank in cash.

BRITISH LABOR BRANDS SOVIET RULING "MURDER"

Moscow's Execution Of Prisoners Bitterly Denounced

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 19.—The resolution passed by the conference of the Second Internationale yesterday was moved by Mr. Ramsay Macdonald, M. P. It is couched in hot terms and expresses amazement that the Moscow Government decided before the trial ended that certain political prisoners might be executed. The resolution calls on working-class organisations to protest against the sentence, which, it declares, is nothing short of murder, coldly planned by a body of men who would add one more black act of vengeance to those already besmirching history's pages.

Mr. Arthur Henderson, M. P., who presided, declared that the difference between British Labor and the Moscow Communists was the difference between democracy and dictatorship.

The passengers, interviewed by Reuter's correspondent said that at tiffin-hour yesterday afternoon four of Dr. Sun Yat-sen's gunboats and one torpedo boat steamed upriver and when between the Oriental Hotel and the Chinese Post Office General Chen Chiung-ming's soldiers fired on the gunboats from the Bund whereupon the gunboats returned fire with machine-guns.

FIRING ERRATIC

The firing was erratic on both sides and was kept up intermittently until the gunboats reached the foreign men-of-war anchorage opposite Shameen, when firing ceased. Bullets flew over the British steamer, Kinshan which was not touched. The Sun Company's lofty building on the Bund ran up the British flag.

Shortly after the Kinshan's departure for Hongkong, firing was resumed at 6.30 in the evening, the gunboats steaming down river in the direction of the Taishatow Railway Station. Firing was continuous.

The naval men employed the heavy guns on board and shelled the White Cloud Hills where General Chen Chiung-ming's troops were stationed. The result of the shelling could not be ascertained. Shells were also Kiangsi, therefore, is the first Province to heed the call of President Li and abolish the office of Military Governor. A new Civil Governor has also been appointed.

Among the answers received by President Li Yuan-hung in reply to his telegram asking for recommendations on the abolition of Tuchuns, the following was received from General Chen Kuang-yuan, ex-Military Governor of Kiangsi:

"Your telegram impresses me with your great love for our country and I appreciate every word of it. Things are in such a state that unless a wise and clever man be made President, there can be no hope of peace for the people.

"During this crisis, the wishes of the people and the expectations of other countries, are that the system of Tuchuns must go so that domestic peace may be established and that financial stability may be found with the disbandment of the troops. Before accepting the Presidency, you have pointed out the way for bringing peace to the country. Therefore I beg you to return at once to Peking to meet the hopes of the country.

"I beg to offer my resignation to show my obedience, but on account of the trouble in Kiangsi, I have to use my name to quiet the officers and soldiers. However, I am preparing to wind up the affairs of the Tuchun's Yamen in order to honor your mandate for the abolition of the system looking toward the restoration of peace in China. Hoping that you will consider my request."

German Launching Halted By Mishap

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, June 18.—A 32,000 ton liner, the Columbus, the largest vessel of the German Mercantile Marine, built at the Schichau Works, Danzig, for the North German Lloyd for their Bremen-New York service, stuck fast while being launched today in the presence of a large crowd.

The anti-climax was more disappointing as the daughter of Herr Carlson, proprietor of the works, in christening the vessel concluded a patriotic speech by saying:

"Go now and bring honor once more to the German black, white and red flag."

Attempts to float the vessel were unsuccessful. It is expected that the floating will be lengthy and troublesome.

(Reuter's Service)

Hamburg, June 18.—The accident to the 12,000 ton Brazilian Lloyd steamer, Avare, which capsized while being towed out from the docks last Friday, seems to have been due to the vessel not being properly ballasted. In addition to many dock hands a hundred of the crew were aboard, of whom 25 are missing and also 13 workmen. Divers rescued several persons who were below when the ship capsized. An authentic list of casualties is not yet available.

FOR REMOVING SUPERFLUOUS HAIR.

No woman who has any sense of beauty will deny that superfluous hair is one of the greatest drawbacks to good looks.

Realising this, women of all times have put themselves to any expense, and have endured considerable pain and discomfort in order to rid themselves of this great disfigurement.

Nowadays electrolysis is a prevalent "cure" for this evil, but in reality this process involves a great deal of unnecessary expense, waste of time and pain.

The simplest quickest, and most effective treatment can easily be carried out by any sufferer, in the privacy of her home. This is the recipe:

Procure about 1 oz. powdered pheminol from your chemist; mix a sufficient quantity with a few drops of water into a stiff paste. Apply this carefuly and thoroughly to the hair you wish to remove, and allow the paste to dry. In a few minutes it can be gently scraped away. The skin is left absolutely free from hair, and should then be carefully washed in warm water, and if desired, lightly dusted with a little talcum powder. (Advt.)

HUCHOW STARTS WAR ON INSECTS; CHILDREN HELP

Educational Campaign Started In Chekiang City

(China Press Correspondence)

Huchow, Chekiang, June 14.—Ten thousand years ago or maybe ten million, the first Chinese settled here on the shores of what was then the open sea, bringing in their outer and inner baggage the amoeba, the flea, the fly and the "whatnot" of insect and sub-insect pests which today for the first time in history, the sons of Han have recognised as a menace. The first Health Campaign is on.

"When you had a 'mocba' and I had a bacillus coli communis," has taken on a new meaning in this arm of the lake and people are realising as never before the need for a real cleanup in Huchow. Not only the officials but the people at large are vitally interested and plan to push the campaign to where they will get some real lasting benefit.

A Health Campaign Committee has been selected consisting of Tsung Seu-s, Military Governor of Huchow and Kaching, President, Lok Be-ts, of the Huchow Chamber of Commerce, vice-President, Li Gwo-pah of the Huchow City Council, Treasurer, Waung Zau-ziang Secretary, Fang Zun-do Business Manager, Fan Zeh-koh Director of parades, exhibitions, etc., and Tsang Koh-kwang, Chief of Police as Chairman of the Executive Committee.

The campaign began formally last Saturday morning, with a long parade consisting of all the school children of Huchow. They paraded all the principal sections of the city, carrying large paper models of flies, mosquitoes, lice and rats, as well various pictures and banners on health subjects. They also distributed thousands of circulars on the "fly" and "cholera," as well as many pamphlets and bulletins on "sanitation," "good health," "prevention of disease" and other similar topics.

Large colored posters calling the people's notice to the dangers of "The Fly," and methods of preventing cholera have been posted in all the prominent places of the city.

Every day throughout the week moving picture and stereoptican shows are given, dealing with Health Subjects. Many hundreds attend each performance. Lectures on these topics are given in different parts of the city, and interest is stimulated among the smaller students especially by contests such as to who catch the most flies. Prizes will be given to those students delivering the largest number "dead or alive."

Considerable help in the form of advice, and suggestions, etc., is being rendered by the foreigners from both the Methodist and Baptist Missions.

DEFENDANT IN WITNESS-BOX IN FREEMAN SUIT

Mr. M. Cumine Testifies Regarding Plans For Apartment Building

Testimony of Mr. M. Cumine, architect, occupied the greater part of yesterday's hearing before Judge Peter Grain in the British Supreme Court in the suit brought by Mrs. Freeman against the firm of Cumine and Milne to recover Taels 4,000 for alleged negligence in drawing up the plans for a house on Route de Say Zoong.

Mr. Cumine told how he had built another house for Mr. Freeman some years ago, and how the latter had approached him in connection with the plans for the erection of the building in question. A plan was drawn up and submitted to Mr. Freeman, who wanted certain alterations made. His firm did not guarantee contractors, and he did not remember any mention of guarantees when the contract was signed.

When did you first hear of the encroachment?—When the contractor came into the office and spoke to someone. He said there was a small encroachment on the east side. I said it should be checked and the wall put back. I did not give the contractor any instructions at the time. This contractor has never worked with me before.

With regard to permit, did you in that case require a permit from the Municipal Council?—Everytime we put up a building we have to submit plans to the Municipal authorities and obtain a permit from them. In this case the permit was applied for. In the International Settlement the Municipal authorities supply you with a form and you must only fill it out, but in the French Municipal Council you have to send a letter and apply for a permit.

If you have a permit what effect has it?—It signifies that the plans are in proper order. They grant a permit when they are satisfied that the building according to that plan will be stable, and that it will not encroach. It is left for the Municipal Council to find out all this.

The Judge: In that plan it would be perfectly useless for the Council to attempt to find out where it encroaches? It would be very easy for the Council to find out where it would encroach. They must survey the plan.

The Judge: If they adopted that procedure they would find that the building encroached on the road?—Yes.

Examined by his counsel, witness said he had never had similar difficulty with regard to road encroachment.

Have you ever had your plans returned to you as being incorrect?—Yes, by both the French and International Municipal Councils. Sometimes the owner wants to do certain things which are in contravention to the Municipal rules. If he insists, the plan is submitted to the Municipal Council and it is returned. I have been in the business for 18 years and have never known the French Council to enforce the rules. I do not know French and I take these regulations behind the permit as non-existent.

The Judge: You take them as non-existent because you do not know French. (Laughter).

Were the bricks in the specification obtainable?—Before the war they were obtainable, but they are not obtainable now.

The Judge: They may not be obtainable now, nevertheless it is a specification. It does seem to me that you have no answer to that. The answer to that is that you should have drawn up a specification. It wants some explanation.

Witness: Bricks 2 by 5 are unobtainable. We have put up several buildings and used the same brick. If you go to a brick dealer and ask him to supply you with bricks 2 by 5 he will tell you that the Kiln in Kashin cannot supply that brick.

The Judge: The plaintiff can say: 'You have made a mistake, you have to pay for it.' You know the celebrated case where the gentleman demanded his pound of flesh. The plaintiff can demand his pound of flesh.

Witness: It was impossible to get bricks of 2 by 5 by 10. No architects could use that size. The price of Tls. 12,000 could not provide for bricks of that size.

Counsel: Did you inspect the mortar used for the building?—I did not like to interfere with Milne's work. He went there very often and he is a more capable man than I am.

When the contract was signed was there anything especially said about the bricks, the thickness of the walls, the mortar, etc?—Nothing was mentioned at the time of signing the contract.

CALIFORNIA "U" GLEE CLUB MEN ARE "ALL-STARS"

Twenty - Eight Performers Were Carefully Chosen By Director Morse

The twenty-eight members of the University of California Glee Club who will arrive in Shanghai on the President Cleveland this week have been carefully selected by Director C. R. Morse from the more than sixty members of the home organisation. The men were chosen not only because they would be able to sing in the chorus numbers, but also for their ability to do a "vaudeville turn." In consequence, every member of the visiting party is a vaudeville artist, and some of the collegians are capable of presenting several varied acts.

Harold Girvin is one of the versatile members of the visiting group which will give five concerts at the Olympic Theater. Girvin is an eccentric dancer, and in addition he is a singer of character songs. Besides these accomplishments, Girvin plays the banjo, and is leader of the famous Glee Club Jazz Band.

The Jazz Band which the Glee Club is bringing to Shanghai is made up of members of the best college orchestras in California. The immediate popularity of the group is attested by the fact that while visiting Japan the students made forty phonograph records of dance music for the Nipponophone company. Earl Reed, saxaphone, Jack King, piano, and Bert Walcott, trombone, with Harold Girvin, leader, each were leaders of their own dance orchestras in California.

The concerts to be given by the Glee Club will begin on Saturday evening, June 24, and will be continued until Wednesday, June 28. On the evening of the 29th the Jazz Band and the members of the Glee Club will entertain at a cabaret dance to be given in the Astor House Summer Garden. On the first of July the collegians will sail for Manila.

Promises Secrecy In Radio Telephony

PRIVACY in radio telephony and telegraphy is promised by a new and simple apparatus perfected by John Hays Hammond, Jr., he announced at his laboratory in Gloucester, Mass. It prevents any station receiving messages other than those intended for it. The same wave-length will carry several messages at the same time, and both voice and code may be transmitted. A far greater number of stations may communicate over a limited number of wave-lengths, and accidental interference from other stations is greatly reduced. Mr. Hammond, who invented the wireless controlled ship and torpedo, is shown operating a theodolite in the construction of his laboratory.

A.D. Silas Sues Arkell & Douglas

Questions of the exact manner in which the sale of five Briscoe motors were sold recently by the firm of Arkell & Douglas formed the basis of an action which was heard yesterday afternoon by U. S. Commissioner N. E. Lurton on a suit filed by Mr. Arthur D. Silas to recover the sum of Tls. 375, alleged to be due as commissions.

Mr. Silas introduced several witnesses and offered several written communications to show that it was through his efforts that the cars were sold, alleging also that an agreement had been made to compensate him for promoting the sales. Mr. L. A. Ross, representing the defendant company offered a general denial of the claims presented. At the conclusion of the hearing Commissioner Lurton took the case under advisement.

WRECK IS REPORTED

He said the vessel was not deserted and seemingly those aboard were engaged in removing cargo ashore by boat.

NEWS AGENCY AND INFORMER FINED FOR INACCURACY

Kuo Wen News Agency And Street Union Secretary Assessed $50 Each

Fines of $50 each were imposed on Hu Tseng-tse, agent, and Chang Hsin-lu, correspondent of the Kuo Wen News Agency and Tung Li-chang, secretary of the Shantung Road Street Union yesterday in the French Mixed Court. Defendants were charged with libelling the French Police. On June 7, the Kuo Wen News Agency circulated a report to the effect that a Chinese beggar was kicked to death by a French police sergeant on Avenue Edward VII, and was published in some of the leading Chinese papers.

Evidence adduced at yesterday's hearing showed that the report was made by Chang upon information received from Tung, who insisted that he had merely heard the report from some other sources and released it to the newspapermen as mere gossip.

The inquest held by the French Mixed Court subsequent to the report showed that the deceased died of disease and was not identified by any one residing in the city.

CHEKIANG PUBLIC FAVORS LU FOR CIVIL GOVERNOR

Local Organisations Offer Post To The Retired Military Governor

(China Press Correspondence)

Hangchow, June 16.—If current opinion in the city is worth anything Military Governer Lu Yung-shang will soon be the civil governer of Chekiang. The opinion is that in announcing his purpose to resign from the miliary governership General Lu has also announced himself into the civil post. This is not thought to have been his intention, but there is a popular demand to this effect.

At the announcement party yesterday, which was attended by the leaders of the city including members of the chamber of commerce, the provincial assembly, educational society, and prominent gentry, Governer Lu wanted to hand over his seal to the representatives of the organisations of the city. They refused. At that time the counter-proposal that the Governor assume the civil administration of the government was not made, but later in the day it was made to him both officially in the name of many of the local organisations and privately by prominent citizens.

If Governor Lu does assume the civil leadership of affairs, either under the name of civil governor, or some other title, it will be in full accord with the popular voice. He is well liked by the people. His administration has been marked by real progress in many lines. This is specially true in both private and public construction, and there has been an unbroken era of peace and prosperity. He has made a reputation as having the public interest at heart.

Back of the current rumors it is clear that the people want General Lu to remain in the province. If he decides to accede to the demand of the city fathers it is thought that the transformation will be brought about without disturbance of the public peace. Civil Governor Shen Ching-chien will probably offer no resistance. There has been a noticeable inflow of ammunition during recent days. At all events it looks as if the general wants to keep faith with his promise of two years ago and retire from the tuchunship.

HURON TEAM TAKES FIRST LEAGUE GAME

Swamp Shanghai In Seven Inning Game By 14-6 Score

LOCALS HAD AN OFF DAY

Booted And Fumbled The Ball Until Game Became A Burlesque

THE WEEK'S PROGRAM

TODAY
38th vs. Buffalo, 4:30 p.m. 7 innings.

TOMORROW
12th vs. 37th, 4:30 p.m. 7 innings.

THURSDAY
Shanghai vs. Buffalo, 5 p.m. 7 innings.

FRIDAY
12th vs. Huron, 3:30 p.m. 7 innings.

SATURDAY DOUBLEHEADER
37th vs. 38th, first game, 2 p.m. 7 innings.
Shanghai vs. 37th, second game 3:45 p.m. 9 innings.

The flagship Huron nine took the first game of the new league schedule yesterday afternoon from the Shanghai team by the very decisive score of 14-6. The sailor batted Wynn and Cadigan as they chose. They piled up six earned runs in the second innings, and they kept right on scoring after Wynn was yanked. Shanghai players fumbled the ball eight times and they made many more errors of omission. The local team looked bad throughout the whole afternoon. The Navy men with their clean hitting however fully deserved their win.

It was just one of those days when a ball team goes to pieces. It happens in any league. Shanghai certainly went to pieces yesterday. Maybe Hopkins' men will settle down now and get somewhere in the league before it is too late.

Wynn lasted one and two third innings. He held the sailors in the first frame, and while he kept working well enough in the second innings, excepting for two walks, he found his best offerings being pounded all over the lot. Radcliffe opened the inning with a free pass. Liddy drove one over to the Parsees' club house for a homer, scoring two runs. Simers knocked one that should have been easy for Hopkins, but Hoppy misjudged it a mile and the hit went for three bacKs. Wynn steadied down then and fanned two men. Stevens and Truby, Draper doubled and Bennett and Scymanski singled. Wynn then walked Lamke, and Radcliffe in his second time at bat, singled to center. Cadigan took up the hurling job then, and got out of the hole fairly easy when Thatch nabbed Liddy's fly for the third out.

Bills muffed a fly in the next inning. Lake dropped Cadigan's throw of Stevens bunt. Three hits in a row counted two more runs. Simers tripled in the fourth when Hopkins again misjudged his fly ball. Two more clean hits by Truby and Draper scored another pair of runs. The last inning was a burlesque of baseball. The sailors counted three runs on one hit, four errors, a passed ball and several sleepy plays by Shanghai men.

Shanghai's runs were all earned but with 14 hung up on the other side of the score card, they never were important. Wood got the only extra base hit for the local team, a pretty home run drive to deep center field. Thatch played a pretty game at second. He stopped off some fast grounders that might have developed into safe hits. Hopkins had his off day, with two flies badly misjudged and the third one clean muffed. Bills also was not in the game. Some times he appeared to be asleep. Lake dropped and missed many throws to first, particularly toward the end of the game when the light was failing. In his favor, however, it must be said that many of those throws were wild or close to it.

One of the bright spots in the game was Scymanski's beautiful running catch in the sixth, when he went out into left field near the foul line for an out on Hopkin's fly. Thatch tricked Truby for an easy out in the third. The sailor had gotten first on one of Cadigan's bean balls, which he stopped with his neck. The two bags ahead were occupied. Draper singled to left. Scott got the ball and relayed it in to Thatch who was standing just east of second. Truby made second on the hit. Thatch faked to throw the ball home to choke off some runs. Truby started for third. Thatch put the ball on him for an easy out. It was neat.

Shanghai beat the 38th Division Sunday with Scott pitching against Louie Placencia. The score was 6-1.

GINK FOWLER WAS HONEST

When Roughtown Started Saving Daylight They Made Him Treasurer

BY "BUGS" BAER

Dear Coal—

Is it true that Gink Fowler is a laundryman and his right name is Fow Gink? Did he ever umpire in the Alfalfa League? Does he umpire right or left handed? Does he lean forward or backward when umpiring behind the plate? Does he snore when deciding close plays? Why did he wear his shin guards on his cars?

I remain,

Yours not so truly,
JOE DOAKS
West Pinochle.

When The Glutt heard that Gink had landed a soft berth in a train wreck, he immediately started pulling all the wires in the piano.

Everybody was confused. Even the merry-go-rounds ran around in circles. The Moose and The Glutt figured out a way to thump Gink like a potter slamming wet clay.

The Moose figured that money would beat Gink. So they dub up an inexpensive bank roll. The Moose set out to beat the races. You all know he was a beetle on parlays.

He might have been a millionaire if he had bet on one hoss alone but he figured all hosses were Siamese nags and must be pyramided in the gambling.

His first guess was wrong sometimes. So was his second. He startled the world when he parlayed the chariots in the last act in Ben-Hur.

He was in the barrel good at the annual Spring meeting at Ocean Grove. He might have done some good for himself if he hadn't parlayed a cat and a mouse and burned up his jack.

Then he figured a pip. He had a great hoss that was a grand oat grinder. He scorched more feed bills than the whole U. S. Army. The Moose parlayed a hurricane and a paper bungalow.

With the money he won on this event he opened up a safe in the Roughtown bank and was caught pink-handed. The Board of Alderman dicharged with a warning not to get caught again.

Gink was fifty decisions behind in his umpiring, so he started judging exciting plays in the Smithsonian Institute.

He called a balk on a Kentucky mule and also declared Pandora out for stepping out of the box.

There were a thousand infield flies in the Roughtown lunchroom.

It is strange that with all this animosity in Roughtown, nobody was ever caught stealing meat from a lion.

JENSEN WINS THE SILVER BOWL IN CLAY BIRD SHOOT

In spite of only nine shooting members turning up on Sunday to compete for the handsome silver bowl presented by Dr. Monro Home, an enjoyable shoot resulted. Among other visitors present were a number of ladies who evinced a keen interest in the shooting. A brisk wind from the south caused the birds to give a peculiar second jump up after the first spring from the trap. This was perhaps the cause of the low handicapped men scoring below their average as their first shot would generally take place at the moment the bird had started on its second jump.

Mr. Jensen shot better than he has previously done and with his long handicap easily won the Cup.

The Sweep was won by Mr. McEuen who also shot well.

The following are the scores:

Monro-Home Cup—100 Birds.

Name.	Score.	H'cap.	Total.
Jensen	87	26	113
McEuen	77	30	107
Tuxford	72	30	102
Read	89	9	98
Barrett	73	25	98
Gande	81	15	96
Hexamer	89	6	95
Nazer	77	18	95
Pirie	71	24	95

The final shoot of the afternoon was at 20 birds for a sweep which Mr. Pirie won with a score of 18+4=22.

London, June 16.—Miss Kane of Great Britain defeated Mrs. Molla Mallory, the American champion, in the semi-finals of the Kent championship. Mrs. Mallory, not playing to true form, lost the first set to Miss Kane, 6—1. She came back in the second set, defeating Miss Kane 2-6. To the astonishment of the spectators she could not hold the lead and lost the last after a hard fought set which was more evenly contested than the score of 6-3 would infer.

Campbell's Team Takes A Good Leg On 1922 Rinks Championships

BY "THE SHOT"

The Recs were in a valiant mood on Sunday when visiting Hongkew Park and made no mistake about the job in hand. It appeared to me that confining the match to 4 rinks would enable the homesters to stop the visitors all conquering career, but it was not to be. The green was in perfect condition but the gusty wind was responsible for a lot of weird and woolly woods. Winning three out of the four rinks, the Recs have reason to be a bit bucked over the affair. Harry Veitch and Tom Poignand were at their best and Bob Dorrance's habit of calling down 2 or 3 for the "small boys" was rapidly developing into a gift as his Chum Lauder would say. Well, its always the same,—give a good workman good tools and he'll beat his inferior and

Dr. Yui Makes Serious Charge In Hankow Address

(Indepondent News Service)

Hankow, June 14.—"Thousands of Chinese people are killed every year through dissipation caused by morphia imported by Japanese through their numerous Japanese Post Offices in various parts of China." This was the opening remark of Dr. David Z. T. Yui, one of the People's Delegates of China at the Washington Conference, in an address this morning at the Hankow Y.M.C.A. before a large audience of students of Hankow schools and colleges, representatives of the Hankow Chamber of Commerce, the Chinese Bankers Association, and other organisations. Upon his arrival this morning from Kaifeng via Chengchow, Dr. Yui was given an ovation at the Tachimen railway station where about 2,000 people waited from early morning to until he arrived on the 9 o'clock train.

A long procession consisting chiefly of students and representatives of Hankow organisations, with Dr. Yui in its midst, bands playing before and behind him, walked from the station to the Y.M.C.A. auditorium, where he was to speak on the results of the Washington Conference.

Dr. Yui touched upon four vital topics. Foreign post offices in China, Abolition of Extra-territoriality, Japan's Twenty-one Demands to China in 1915, and Redemption of the Shantung Kiaochow-Tsinan Railway.

Opening his address with the question of foreign post offces in China, Dr. Yui said: "The establishment of foreign post offices in China is a slight on China's sovereignty and independence. The Chinese postal system and organisation at present is just as perfect if not better than any foreign service, and there is no reason why foreigners find it necessary to keep up their own offices in China.

"Dr. Yui strongly criticised the morphia imports into China through Japanese post offices which render millions of Chinese lives useless every year. He said at the Washington Conference table, the Japanese delegates did not wish to agree to the resolution to abolish foreign post-offices in China, just because she did not see her way to stop this line of income.

"By January 1, 1923, all foreign post-offices should be withdrawn from China, according to the Washington resolution. But whether this can be brought about no one can tell now.

Noted Author Sues For Divorce

Mrs. Gouverneur Morris, Int.

GOUVERNEUR Morris, the noted author, whose handsome heroes always marry the girls of their choice and live happily ever after, has entered suit for divorce in Los Angeles against his wife, the former Elsie Waterbury, of New York. He charges desertion and abandonment. The couple have two children—Kate, fifteen, and Jefferson, eleven. The wedding of Miss Waterbury to Mr. Morris in 1905 was one of the most brilliant events of the social season. "Temperament" is the reason given by their friends for the divorce action, but it is reported that Mrs. Morris's attachment for the suffrage movement and her entry into business in New York, where she conducts "Primrose House," a beauty parlor, had something to do with the split.

that is one thing the Juniors can boast about a good green—thanks to the efforts of Messrs. Macgregor and Crooks there is not a trundler in town who does not enjoy a roll up at Hongkew Park.

The only pity is that it is a one way green but I hear the Juniors are hoping for better things bye and bye.

CHAMPIONSHIPS

C. Richard's team was put gently to sleep on Sunday morning last, through the efforts of four roving Scotsmen headed by Gavin Campbell. The dope they used were a couple of sixes nicely mixed up with a few ones and twos here and there which Charlie could find no antidote for. Except for the sixes, it was a very good game under very tricky conditions. The best player of the crowd was probably Charlie, although this was mainly because he was often called for forcing shots which were not spoiled by the high wind that prevailed. The club's skip was playing very well and at one end when he put out three and lay the shot went a long way towards the win.

Women War Against Mosquito Pest Here

Definite plans to eliminate the mosquito will be formulated within the next week or so and with the individual help of each housekeeper, the deadly pest will be a thing of the past in a short time. Dr. Anne Walter Fearn was hostess at a luncheon yesterday at her Sanitorium, 30 Route Pichon, at which were present the main members of the committee handling the campaign. Upon entering the dining room, the guests were immediately aware it was to be a "mosquito tiffin" by the neat hand-painted cards, illustrating the mosquito in action in various positions.

The various methods for fighting the mosquito were discussed at this meeting, as well as ideas advanced showing how each person in the Yangtszepoo, Hongkew, French and International Settlements of Shanghai could be reached, giving them information whereby they can begin immediately to make a personal attack on the mosquito, as well as the larvae, which after all is the most vital step in bringing about results.

Present at this tiffin were: Herbert Bland, of the Health Committee of the Shanghai Municipal Council; Alvin J. Cox, formerly of the Bureau of Science of Manila, P. I.; Dr. W. W. Peter, of the National Council for Health Education; Dr. A. W. Fearn, President of the American Woman's Club; Mrs. E. M. Gull, president of the British Women's Association; Mrs. J. Douglas, and Mrs. J. M. Darroch, on the committee representing the British Women's Association; Mrs. P. H. Dunbar and Mrs. Van Buskirk, representing the American Woman's Club; Miss Lucille Douglass, chairman of the publicity committee, assisted by Miss Ruth Benedict and Miss Margaret Powell.

Dr. Peter, who has had wide experience in contesting with pests retarding good health, and disease germs in regard to the human body, stated that all material for publicity work of any kind would be supplied by his department in fighting the mosquito in Shanghai. Mr. Bland of the Health Committee of the Shanghai Municipal Council, spoke of renewed efforts on the part of the committee in attacking disease carriers, in some instances good results being brought about, but stated that a more personal appeal would bring quicker and larger results in this campaign. In this connection foreign women of Shanghai could co-operate in a beneficial way with the Chinese women, and while the foreign homes are doing their part, the Chinese women in their homes could be applying the same methods.

The old method of putting kerosene in the drains, old stagant pools surrounding the premises on which one lives, empty glass jars, tins, flower-potplates, and the water container put under the ice box, is one of the most fruitful methods used in killing off the pests. Any empty article around the house or garden is a harbor for the breeding of mosquitos, as only one-half inch of water is needed for the mosquito to lay the eggs and hatch the larvae. From that time it takes ten days to produce the full grown mosquito, ready to do his nuisance. The use of kerosene, assured Dr. Cox, will not kill vegetation. Of course, it must be used intelligently and if a small portion is supplied to the water with which plants and the vegetable garden are watered, the vegetation will not be effected. It is important to have the correct information as to the proportion used.

Dr. Cox illustrated how the closets and dark places might be ridded of the mosquito. Here they congregate in large numbers, seeking dark places, and if a small box, air-tight, with the exception of a small opening, is put in the proper place, the mosquitos will fly into the box. Smoke is then allowed to pass into the box—the mosquito becomes stupefied and can be removed and destroyed completely.

A few simple methods as the ones mentioned in the foregoing paragraph, along with other suggestions which will be sent out by the committee in the near future, will greatly aid in relieving Shanghai of the mosquito, and something which each person can do who takes a responsibility in this campaign.

Dr. Fearn spoke of the marked improvement in her own home and garden, since campaigning against the pest on her premises. Heretofore, it was quite impossible to be comfortable in any part of the house and now there is a marked change in the condition. Each day the chimneys are smoked, all water containers are dried out and placed in the sun when not in use, and drains and gutters cleaned and supplied with kerosene. These precautions are followed out each day at a certain hour, and within two weeks time good results have been noticed.

Steps will be taken to enlist the co-operation of the Shanghai Woman's Club, an organisation of some 500 Chinese women of Shanghai, having Mrs. T. C. Chu, a Wellesley graduate and ardent philanthropic worker, as president. It can readily be seen much good will be accomplished in this connection.

Dr. Fearn will be hostess at another tiffin party for the Chinese women within the next few days, at which time the program of the campaign will be presented.

Soochow Language School Term Ends

(China Press Correspondence)

Soochow, June 17.—The Soochow University Language School closed today with an excellent program given by this year's language school students. This is the third year that this school has been open to foreigners studying Chinese. This year the enrollment has been more than 40. Plans were outlined by Dean Nance of this Department to the effect that funds were available for the erection of dormitory and other buildings necessary for the work.

Thus far this has been the undertaking of the Southern Methodist Mission. But when the larger program is started it is hoped that other Missions will help to support the undertaking. The school has been open to all Missions working in the Wu dialect district or any others interested in this dialect.

Mr. Lea Pah-lien, the director of the school deserves much credit for the splendid showing the school is making. Mr. Lea has felt for many years that there was a large place in Soochow University for just such an undertaking. He has gathered about him some experienced teachers and a splendid piece of work has been done this year.

Ship Subsidy Bill Must Await Tariff

(China Press Service)

Chicago, June 18.—Chairman Cambell of the House Rules Committee, after a conference with President Harding, announced that the Ship Subsidy bill will probably not be taken up until the tariff bill which is now before the Senate is sent to a joint conference.

He said that the President was insistent that the Ship Subsidy Bill be considered before the adjournment of Congress but realised exigiencies were necessitating an early consideration of the Tariff.

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 17.—The police of Vienna have informed the Home Office that they have arrested a man believed to be Gerard Bevan, former Chairman of the City Equitable Fire Insurance Company, who has been missing since February 8. The Home Office is awaiting confirmation of identity. According to Reuter's Vienna correspondent the man was provided with a French passport in the name of Leon Vernier and had been living in modest lodgings in Vienna for the past two months. When arrested on Tuesday it is alleged that he admitted his identity with Bevan and made a full confession. Apparently he had little money.

Admiral Bullard Visits In Changsha

(China Press Correspondence)

Changsha, June 16.—Admiral Bullard, of the United States Navy, visited this port last week and was accorded a reception befitting his rank. For several weeks the Admiral has been visiting the Yangtsze ports, going as far west as Ichang, whence he came to this place.

With Mrs. Bullard, he arrived on a large Standard Oil launch. A reception was tendered at which the captain of the gunboat Quiros and the American Consul acted as hosts.

The Quiros has been stationed here throughout the winter, and a few days previous to the arrival of Admiral Bullard the Villalobos came to relieve it. The Quiros has been ordered to Kiukiang, and left this port on Monday morning.

What The Americans Think Of Russians

It was Rudyard Kipling who said that the Russian was a very pleasant gentleman until he tucked his shirt into his trousers. Which was the Englishman's way of saying that as a fellow-European he thought the Russian a very amiable Oriental.

What does the American think of the Russian? How does he like him in his native land? How is he impressed not by the cosmopolitan inhabitants of the big cities but by the peasant and the Main street tradesman?

The American Relief Administration, which, as the distributer of America's 20 million dollar gift to the famine sufferers, will feed approximately 7 million people in the stricken areas, has already opened its stations all through the country—in Moscow, Petrograd, Kazan, Simbirsk, Samara, Saratov, Ufa, Tzaritzin. In fact its most easterly post is now eighty miles beyond Tcheliabinsk, which every European considers the gateway to China.

The A. R. A. workers have therefore penetrated to the very heart of Russia. They have come to know its people intimately under the circumstances which inevitably reveal their real character.

What they think of the Russian, his manner of life, his attitude of mind, and above all his capacity for suffering in his present terrible ordeal, is reflected in the following collection of stories and first-hand opinions.

This first story comes from the Stavropol district of Samara.

Late last fall an American Relief Administration worker on a tour of investigation through this territory came on a little village where the famine was reaching a crisis and the people had begun to despair. Already they were beginning to dive on grass, roots and the edible but dysentery-causing clay which have come to be the main food for millions of Russians.

Descending from his car, he seemed indeed a real god from a machine, for, satisfied as to their need, he forthwith opened a kitchen, to which stocks of nourishing supplies came regularly from a central warehouse, to save the lives of their children.

In December the A. R. A. man returnd to see how the work was progressing. He came by sleigh this time, for snow had blocked the roads, and there is no railway in those outlying districts of the famine area. He came late in the day, when the gloom was gathering, and the first gleam that met his eye was from a candle in the village of Old Benaradka. It was the only glimmer at the moment. During his stay he noticed that it was constant, and later they told him the reason.

It was a candle kept constantly burning for the soul of the A. R. A. by villagers who had no other way of showing their gratitude for its timely aid.

"The Russan is an oriental," said one A. R. A. man whose work took him on a trip through the whole Volga Valley. "No man not thoroughly imbued with the passive philosophy of the East could take his predicament as he takes it today.

"Can you imagine an occidental farmer sowing seed for next year's crop and telling you at the same time that he expected to be dead of starvation before that crop ripened?

"Can you imagine an American letting his President tell him he might as well die of hunger in his own home as try to escape and die in the open? Yet thousands of Russians listened to President Kalinin tell them that and never uttered a complaint.

"Though they were scraping the trees of their bark to make bread with it. I did not hear any of them beg. Sometimes they asked help—for their children—but quietly, in the tone of one man putting a reasonable request of another.

"And they are highly intelligent people, too. They know why this famine is one of the worst that ever struck the Volga Valley. They know all the causes that led to it, and they know who is helping them most to fight it.

"There is not a peasant among them that does not realise what America is doing. Not only are they grateful, but they will never forget."

The primitive conditions of life in some of the remote villages of the famine area and the consequent trials of an efficient relief worker trying to put his kitchen on a business basis are amusingly illustrated in the following incident, which comes also from the Samara district.

It has always been the rule of the A. R. A. that the feeding stations should open at a fixed time, when all the children capable of being accommodated at one sitting should come, get their meal and depart. In this village, however, the inspector found that the kitchens were operating more or less on a cafeteria basis. After the first sitting they remained open until a certain hour. Then, as the children came, they were served.

The A. R. A. man protested to the local authorities.

"Why don't you divide the children into sections," he said, "and feed each section at a certain time?"

Quite impossible, they told him. "But why?" he demanded.

The reason was simple. So scarce were clocks and watches among the peasans in Stavropol that it was impractical to fix more than an approximate hour for feeding. The children's stomachs, to be sure, acted as excellent timepieces, never failing to ring in those due for the first sitting. But as to drawing a rigid minute mark thereafter—that was out of the question, when the only guide for the parents was the position of the sun.

NOTICE

The presence in the French Concession of wandering dogs constitutes, at this time of the year, a particularly grave danger. Many cases of hydrophobia have been notified.

In these circumstances special intructions have been given to the Police to organize, as from today, battues in which all ownerless dogs found in the streets of the Concession will be, if it is possible, taken and put in pound, or, if not, killed on the spot.

Residents in the French Concession, who will certainly appreciate the imperative necessity of this measure, are asked to take care that their dogs are not allowed out without muzzles.

They will also render a great service to the community if they will notify the Police or Sanitary Department of all cases of the death of suspected dogs occuring at their houses or in the neighbourhood.

Consul General de France.

Blast At Chenchow Mine Fatal To 10

(China Press Correspondence)

Changsha, Hunan, June 14.—Reports have reached this city of a terrible explosion of dynamite at Chenchow in the southern part of this province. The explosive was owned by a mining company and had been stored in a large warehouse.

The cause of the explosion not definitely known. It took place at 10:30 in the evening originating in some manner within the building. It is understood that some have suggested foul play, but so far there is no proof of wilful intention.

Forty people were killed inside the building and a number of others in the immediate vicinity, the total dead reaching approximately one hundred, while many wounded are being cared for in the Presbyterian Hospital. The warehouse was completely destroyed, and all adjacent buildings demolished for several hundred yards.

Window panes were broken and doors and windows shaken loose all over the city. The Presbyterian Mission, which is located some distance away, has 176 window panes broken in the Girl's School alone, while the hospital, residences and other buildings suffered likewise.

Republicans Sore Over Treasury Jobs

(China Press Service)

Washington, June 16.—A memorandum to President Harding signed by a number of Republicans in Congress urges the support of Dover in the Dover-Blair row. The memorandum charges many Democrats with holding the keys to positions in the Treasury department and controlling it. Secretary of the Treasury Mellon characterised the charges as "so false and for the most part so ridiculous as would ordinarily require no notice." He branded the memorandum as the "product of a few selfishly ambitious employees and some discredited ex-employees."

He said that the administration of the Treasury Department was in the hands of Republicans and such Democrats as had been retained were being employed on account of their superior qualifications

Shansi Tuchun Has Disarmament Plan

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, June 18.—A message to the Government from the Tuchun of Shansi, General Yen Hsi-shan, advocates early disbandment of the majority of troops. He points out that formerly a burgher system prevailed by which men employed on farms could be called on for national service but between times labored productively.

General Yen thinks that this system merits careful consideration and meanwhile recommends that picked men should be selected for service with the National Army and the remainder be sent home to work out their own salvation.

Some of them, however, he says, should be enrolled in a National Reserve, which should be strictly limited to the requirements of the country.

U. S. Senate In Row Over Bonu

(China Press Service)

Washington, June 18.—The question of the Soldier Bonu broke out unexpectedly in the Senate when speaking slacked on the Tariff Bill and it was disposed of for the afternoon.

The leaders clashed in a two hour debate which only indicated that the Republican plan would prevail.

Senator David J. Walsh of Massachusetts said that the time had come to be honest and frank about the Bonus. He said that a majority favored the Bonus and the minority opposed it.

Another group professes favor it while allowing it to be kicked about like a football secretly doing everything possible to defeat it. The truth is that a majority will not allow the Bill to come to a vote.

Spot bar silver was up ¼d. and forward ⅛d. in London on Saturday.

The New York price declined to 71 cents, and the London-New York cross rate to 443¾.

The only changes in our official quotations here this morning were a drop in the Gold Dollar rate to 78½, and a rise in the Yen rate to 61.

The market opened on the easy side, but some business in sterling was done at 3-6⅝ for June-July, and in Gold Dollars at 78¾.

However, as speculators were strong buyers, rates eased off, at one time as low as 3-6¼ for July and August Sterling being done, and 78⅛ for July and 78 for August Gold Dollars.

The Sterling T.T. rate was therefore dropped to 3-6, the Gold Dollar rate to 77½, and the other rates changed in proportion.

After the drop in rates, the market steadied up, in fact, towards the close became firm, closing with sellers of stearling at 3s. 6⅝d. for June, and 3s. 6½d. for July-August. There were gold dollar sellers at the close at 78¾ for practically any deliverly up to August.

India and China bought a small amount of silver in London on Saturday, and the market there is reported as steady.

New York report their market as easy, with sellers.

Singapore Rubber Auction

June 1, 1922

A great improvement has taken place in the London market since our last report, owing to the arrival in London of a Dutch Government Official with a view to discuss the possibility of a joint restriction scheme with the British Authorities. London is this morning reported up to 7⅞d. and New York at 15 cents for spot. The tendency for forward positions is, however, slightly easier. The local market has remained firm with more buyers than sellers, and business has been hampered by a number of local holidays.

The weekly auction was postponed until today (Thursday) owing to the Malayan holiday at the beginning of the week.

Prices here followed suit with those in the outside market, and show in general an advance of 1 to 1½ cents on the week.

There were 911 tons put up for sale, of which 871 tons were offered and 729 tons sold.

Singapore Standard Ribbed Smoked Sheet fetched 26 cents, which marks an advance of 1½ cents on the week.

There was a good demand for this grade and sheet equal to Standard, although the attendance of buyers was not as great as expected.

Off Quality grades of sheets were wanted.

Only one lot of Awarded Standard 1st Latex Crepe was sold; the lot, being in cases, fetched 26½ cents.

Crepe equal to Standard found buyers at an advance of 1 cent.

Brown, Dark and Barky Crepes were on an average ½ cent up.

The tone of the market was easier at the close with only a few buyers operating.

Brigands Plunder City; Fears Felt For Foreigners

(China Press Correspondence)

Kaifeng, June 18.—Three thousand brigands descended upon the hsien city of Luyi, 300 li southeast of here yesterday and have completely sacked the city, according to a wire received here requesting that aid be sent at once. The city has a population of 40,000 and it is feared that thousands are in danger, including foreign missionaries from whom no word has as yet been received.

The missionaries in this field include F. Dittmanson and wife, of the Lutheran Mission, but it is not known here whether they are in the station or not. Several Italian Roman Catholic missionaries also are in the field and fears for their safety are openly expressed by the priests of that church in this city.

The scene of the sacking of Luyihsien, according to the meagre advices received here was terrible and it is feared that thousands of casualties have taken place in revenge for whatever feeble resistance the peaceful inhabitants, assisted by a few score of soldiers, were able to oppose against the bandits.

Hundreds of Chinese who have relatives and friends in the sacked city are dispatching frantic telegrams asking news of their safety. The outbreak is believed due to the presence in the country side of some 10,000 disbanded soldiers who have turned banditry as an outlet for their blood-letting tendencies.

U. S. Rail Workers Threaten To Quit

(China Press Service)

Hartford, June 18.—The withdrawal of wage reductions and the termination of the practice of farming out repair work are the only conditions upon which a strike of a million railroad workers on July first may be averted.

The chiefs of various unions said that "Thus far ninety-eight percent favor the strike."

Cincinnati, June 18.—Chiefs of the miners and railroad unions have agreed to meet on Tuesday to discuss a joint strike.

(Reuter's Service)

Chicago, June 17.—The Railroad Labor Board announced a cut in the wages of clerks and station employes, signalmen and stationary firemen by from two to six cents an hour from July 1. The cut in wages is expected to realise a saving of $27,000,000 in the annual wages bill. Three hundred and twenty-five thousand men are effected.

Economic Development vs. Aggression

By Lt. Colonel B. Roustam Bek
(Military Observer Throughout the War for the Daily Express, London.)

THE North China Standard and its Japanese colleague The Japan Times and Mail are very busy defending the Japanese military clique from the world wide journalistic attack directed against its studied aggressiveness. Even Isaac F. Marcosson is bitterly criticised for his "libellous" articles in The Saturday Evening Post.

Poor little, gallant and peace-loving Japan. By assertion of these Japanese newspapers, Japan is not aggressive whatsoever. In China, in Korea, in Siberia and in Manchuria she is only engaged in developing her economic intersts pursuing this "legitimately" with a view to "self support."

Defending the Japanese aggression towards Russia and China, the North China Standard says: "Take England and America. Both possess vast territories and yet they look out for new places in the Far East to expand their trade. Such economic aspirations, as far as Britain and the United States are concerned, are declared to be of a peaceful character, but when the Japanese, their country growing too small to hold its population, endeavor to develop economic relations with their neighbors, they are denounced as aggressive."

I remember that the critics of my book, "The Origin of the Evil; the Satellites of the Czar in the Far East" published in Nice in 1909—in which I described all the horrors and mischievous deeds of the Russian army during the Boxer campaign of 1900—reproached me and asserted that I attacked the Russians only when the other foreign troops absolutely did the same things. My reply to the critics was that if the conduct of the other nations in 1900 was immoral, this could not serve as an excuse for the Russians. I think that a similar answer would be just as good for the defenders of the Japanese aggression in our days.

Japan cannot blame the Russians of the old regime or those of the Soviets, because they were always ready to offer to Japan a chance to establish herself economically in the Far East as well as in Russia.

After the Russo-Japanese War, the Russians, without enmity, welcomed the Japanese. The business between the two countries progressed and was considered most promising. There was no bitterness in Russia towards their recent enemies who fought against Russian militaristic imperialism and supported the Russian Revolution. I was myself one of those who enjoyed such support from the Japanese authorities while I was their prisoner of war.

Are the Japanese really friends of the Russian people as they claim to be? I do not think so, because if they are they would not have utilised the same revolution which they supported as an opportunity to annex a portion of the Russian territory and to commit upon the Russian population crimes which make the whole civilised world tremble with horror and provoke the protest of the most reactionary section of its press. The London Times, the New York Times, The Saturday Evening Post, The China Press, and many other newspapers and magazines are against the aggressiveness of Japan. Are they Bolshevik agents also?

Look at the Japanese invasion of the Maritime Province. Is this done for the sake of economic development which every country has the right to pursue "legitimately" with a view of self-support? Have the Japanese militarists acted LEGITIMATELY in Korea, in Formosa and in China? In regard to legitimacy, the Japanese militaristic clique certainly has its own ideas. I must point out once again that while accusing militaristic Japan of aggressiveness, I am far from having the idea of condemning the whole Japanese nation, with whom I am in sympathy because of their enslavement by their militarists and despotic narikins.

With real pain in my heart, I look upon the growing Japanese youth whose education is entirely under the control of the military clique of the Empire, and in that respect I endorse the opinion expressed by Mr. Marcosson in his article in the Saturday Evening Post stating, for instance, that in Japan "each little life has been welcomed as just one more prop for the army and navy."

It was soon after the Japanese naval victory at Tsushima over the Russian fleet of Admiral Rostjestvensky in 1905 that I was made a prisoner of war in Matsuyama where the Commandant of our concentration camp, Lt. Colonel Koono, with whom I was on the best of terms, sent to me a translation of a speech of famous Admiral Kamimura addressed to one of the high schools for girls in Japan. I have never forgotten this speech. It contained the following significant words: "The Japanese women must bear in mind that their duty now first of all is to supply their motherland with healthy sons who have to replace the fallen heroes on the land and sea and who must in the future be the foundation of the military strength and glory of Japan."

In sending this speech to me, Colonel Koono certainly had the idea of showing to me, as to a military historian, the high level of the Japanese military spirit. He certainly could not conceive that the words of this Japanese Admiral would one day serve as one of the many facts which the North China Standard has so pathetically revived in order to refute Mr. Marcosson's statement.

On frequent occasions I have explained why militaristic Japan is "viewed with alarm" by almost all the nations of the world and I have firmly stated that only the people of New Japan—the peace-loving Japanese—can restore the lost sympathy to the Japanese by putting an end to the unlimited influence of their military party, and this, I am sure, will soon be an accomplished fact.

The economic development of any country can be considered as such only if it is carried out in a manner absolutely different from that practised by certain Western Powers in the past. It has to be carried out in a LEGITIMATE way by the people themselves who must be free from the influence of the General Staff or other military organisations. But when we can see that Japanese industries and tradesmen are establishing themselves in regions previously selected by their military leaders who only pursue their strategical aims for future territorial annexations as is the fact in the Southern Pacific, on the Indian coast, in China as well as in the Russian Far East from Vladivostok to Kamchatka, and when such economic development, as it is the case in Formosa, in Korea and in the Maritime Province, causes bloodshed and unspeakable suffering on the part of the local populations, then it must be viewed only as aggressiveness. Such a method of economic development might have yielded some benefit to the aggressors a century ago but it cannot be successful nowadays when the populations of practically every country begin to understand their rights to exist independently.

Yamagata, who was responsible for the military strength of Japan, was praised when he placed Japan out of danger from invasion by foreign aggressors. As it is today, the Japanese Empire is absolutely safe from aggression.

Soviet Russia, the most powerful neighbor of Japan, is far from having any intention to harm the Japanese people and is, on the contrary, ready to open the gates of Russia to their trade. So, what right have the Japanese militarists to use armed force, originally created for their self-defense, for aggressive purposes and to call their barbarous invasions of the territories of their neighbors LEGITIMATE means of economic development accomplished with a view to "self-support."

According to the moral advocated by the North China Standard, it becomes evident that burglars breaking into the houses of others, killing the people and robbing them of their property, must be right because they are acting also "with a view to self-support." What do the Japanese aggressors say to this? Do they also call this economic development? From the burglar's standpoint it may be so.

A PLEA FOR ART IN SHANGHAI

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS,

Dear Sir.—May I trespass upon your valuable space to address a few words to your readers upon a matter which I have very much at heart, and which I feel concerns Shanghai very materially. It is that of arousing public interest to the point of undertaking the building and equipment of a museum, art gallery, and library for young and old alike, and the furthering of intellectual life in Shanghai.

This idea has been mooted before, but, though received with a considerable amount of sympathy it has not up to the present crystalised into any definite action. It is hardly necessary for me to go over the details again of what Shanghai lacks in the way of public institutions for the education of her youth or the mental food of her adult population. There is no art gallery, although China is one of the foremost countries in the world in art production. Outside certain private societies there are no museums; while any such thing as a public reference library does not exist. When one comes to consider the size of the European and American community in Shanghai, one cannot help but wonder that such a state of affairs exists.

In Shanghai there are hundreds of European children who, owing to the force of circumstances, will never be able to go to one of the home countries for their education. All that they will get to equip them for the struggle of life must be obtained in local schools, and though I am sure that such schools will give them a great deal, the fact that there are no institutions such as are to be found in every town of any pretensions in Europe or America must mean that they lose much of what home-educated children get. And who can estimate what it means to the young people of the home countries to have the splendid libraries that they have to go to as they grow up and want to learn more of science, art, literature, than could be taught them at school?

How much does the average man or woman of Shanghai know of the natural history of China; of the country's wonderful ceramic art, of its history, its productions, its people? And where is the would-be student to turn in order to find out about these things?

Is Shanghai forever going to remain a town where only money is made, where the main object of her inhabitants is to make a fortune, or a competency, and I retire to some home land, where business and sport are the only interests, and matters intellectual have no place?

I would like to suggest to your readers, especially those who have the future welfare of the port at heart, that they come forward with offers of help, suggestions, expressions of sympathy, in order to bring about the desirable object mentioned above. It requires only a moment's thought to convince anyone of the benefits that must accrue to the settlement and future generations of Shanghai children to have a first class public building wherein may be housed a natural history museum, a good library, an art gallery, reading rooms, and a commodious lecture hall. Shanghai needs it, and if, owing to hard times and the already heavy burdens of the ratepayers, the municipal authorities cannot undertake to finance such a scheme, surely the necessary funds can be raised by public subscription.

Trusting that you will give this letter due prominence in your valuable paper, and that the sympathy of your readers may be counted upon in any effort to further the scheme suggested herein, I am, Sir, Yours faithfully

ARTHUR DE C. SOWERBY.

Shanghai, June 17, 1922.

FASHIONS

It is not only the skirt that changes its length from time to time at the dictates of Dame Fashion. We notice that the feminine waist also has a habit of moving anywhere from the shoulders to the knees.

Pass the lyre:

Mary had a little waist,
It wandered to and fro,
And everywhere the fashions went,
Her waist was sure to go.

THE LIGHTER SIDE OF POLITICS

"What is your husband, madam?" inquired a political canvasser of the lady of the house.

Came the tart reply: "When he is among Protectionists he's a Free Trader, and when he is among Free Traders he's a Protectionist, and when he's at home he's a blooming nuisance.

DRESS

A sweet disorder in the dress
Kindles in clothes a wantonness:
A lawn about the shoulders thrown
Into a fine distraction,
An erring lace, which here and there
Enthrals the crimson stomacher,
A cuff neglected, and thereby
Ribbons to flow confusedly,
A winning wave, deserving note
In the tempestuous petticoat,
A careless shoe-string, in whose tie
I see a wild civility,
Do more bewitch me, than when art
Is too precise in every part.

WHERE EVERYBODY OWNS A STILL

Prohibition stories have been a bit overdone of late, but the following—for which Mr. H. G. Wells was originally responsible—is so good that I venture to reproduce it.

An Englishman, tired and very thirsty, struck a small town in Kentucky as the shades of evening were beginning to fall.

He knew, of course, that prohibition was the law of the land. But he had heard also that the law was frequently evaded.

So, approaching a long, lean Kentuckian who was holding up a fence outside a corner grocery store, he said in a low voice:

"Excuse me, but is there any place round about here where a chap can get a drink?"

The Kentuckian looked the Englishman up and down. Then he pointed to a building some little distance away.

"See that church over there, stranger?" he said.

"Yes," replied the Englishman, "I see it. But you don't mean to tell me you can buy a drink in a church?"

"No," said the Kentuckian. "That is the only place in this town where you can't."

Peril Of Divergent Interests To Continuation Of Entente —Lloyd George Expected To Go To Country For Endorsement Of His Position At Genoa

BY P. W. WILSON
(Ex-Member, British Parliament.)

To any one who saw Raymond Poincare, as President of the French Republic, drive through the streets of cheering London, who recalls the great days when King Edward VII. was the idol of Paris, who heard that terrible speech on August 3, 1914, in which Sir Edward Grey told the British House of Commons that England could not stand aside while the German fleet battered the Channel ports of France—to any such person it is obvious that the entente, as then understood, in France, in Europe and throughout the British Empire, no longer exists. Before the war I was intimately associated with the British press and can state from experience what could and what could not be written then of France; and in Fleet Street, the supposed home of our newspapers, sentiment has wholly changed. In those days the critics of the entente, who thought that Anglo-French policy had "encircled Germany," were limited to a few more or less vocal Liberals and labor leaders, and among others—say Earl Loreburn, the Lord Chancellor, or Viscount Morley—the misgivings were implied rather than expressed. The entente was arranged by Lord Lansdowne, a Conservative Foreign Secretary. It was at once endorsed by Sir Edward Grey, both before he took office as a Liberal and afterward. It was thus lifted beyond the region of party politics and it was approved with obvious emphasis by the throne. That was the position before the war. It is not the position today.

In examining the situation we must bear in mind the fact that the system of alliances or ententes developed by Lords Lansdowne and Grey had no existence as long as Queen Victoria lived. The normal policy of Great Britain, throughout her history, has been freedom from any such entanglements. The British case is that she was forced from her aloof attitude by the rise of Germany, not as a commercial power, for Germany was Britain's best customer, but as a military menace, closely allied as such with Austria-Hungary and Italy. It was Germany in the background that led to the Anglo-Japanese alliance. It was this same factor that induced France and Britain in 1904 to settle their minor differences in various parts of the world, and particularly in Egypt and Morocco. And with France already allied to Russia, on terms which Britain, as Viscount Grey insisted, did not ask to see, it was natural and indeed inevitable that, by the Anglo-Russian settlements of 1906 and 1907, diplomatic peace should be declared along the entire frontier of India, Afghanistan and Persia.

But let me make it clear that even thus there was no alliance, save with Japan. Lord Grey's own description of the arrangements was that the Entente powers formed "a diplomatic group." The agreement with Russia, though written, was no more than a delimitation of frontier. And with France there was no undertaking, whether by document or otherwise, to support her by war. After the crisis over Morocco in 1905 military and naval conversations doubtless took place between France and Britain, and in August, 1914, the French fleet was in the Mediterranean, leaving the Channel ports to no other than British guardianship. But on November 22, 1912, letters were exchanged between the two powers which expressly asserted on behalf of Britain and admitted on behalf of France that there was "no engagement"—putting it mildly—to fight against other powers. Indeed, one of the complaints made against Britain was that she held back her decision too long. Her Cabinet was known to be divided. And many high authorities in Germany believed, until it was too late, that she would, after all, remain neutral.

To complete this review of the past, I must say a word about the treaty guaranteeing Belgium. It belonged to no entente negotiated in the twentieth century. On the contrary, it was signed in 1839. It was not against Germany, alone or mainly, that Belgium was guaranteed. In the present sense of that word, there was at that date no Germany. It was to defend Belgium against France that the battle of Waterloo was fought, and in 1870, as in August, 1914, Britain addressed to France and Germany, in identical terms, a note insisting upon respect for Belgian neutrality. It is to the eternal credit of France, that, despite the strategic position at Sedan, on the Belgian frontier, she kept her word. It is to the eternal shame of Germany that she broke it. But the point here is that the guarantee of Belgium by Britain is no more a part of the ententes above described than is her "alliance" with Portugal, which has continued uninterrupted since the days of the Black Prince.

THE BRITISH POSITION

So much for the Anglo-French Entente, as it existed up to the moment when active military and naval co-operation intervened. What I have now to do is to state the British position as it stands today. The war has been won. The formidable military alliances between Germany, Austria-Hungary, Turkey and Italy are wholly dissolved or shattered. Indeed, Italy fought with France and Britain against the Central Powers. The German fleet has disappeared, according to information which British agents have personally verified. Germany is today effectively disarmed and demobilised on land, which was the object of the war. This information has been furnished by the British Prime Minister to Parliament, with facts and figures, including statistics of munitions destroyed under British (and other) supervision.

Of these statements, neither contradiction nor substantial modification has been suggested in any quarter. The Kaiser has gone. Ludendorff is writing not dispatches and orders, but reminiscences. And France herself, with munitions intact and with many times the armed forces of Germany, now isolated from Austria and Hungary, confesses through M. Poincare that she can, single handed, seize the Ruhr Valley, without fear of opposition, while she also considers herself strong enough to alienate British sentiment by threatening to build submarines. It is, to British observers, equally plain that, judged by her diplomacy, France is not depending for security upon any pledge that she might receive from the United States.

These are the circumstances under which the Entente has now to be considered. There is no repudiation. There is nothing in writing to repudiate. And, as her alliances with Portugal and Japan show, there is nothing that Britain dislikes more than the mental effort and vague risks involved in canceling an arrangement, whatever it be, to which she is a party. She even retains the royal veto. According to such precedents, the Entente simply becomes obsolete.

As Britain sees the matter, France is, on her side, dissatisfied with the Entente as it has existed hitherto. She wants it in writing. What has been inscribed in blood must be ratified in ink. After no recent war in her history has Britain entered into such a permanent bond with her allies. Her post-war policy has always been based on conciliation. It was so after Napoleon abdicated. It was again so after the Crimea. And it is so today. In demanding a written alliance France asks what Britain hitherto has never, in modern times, at any rate, agreed to. The alliance which France proposes only contemplates one eventuality, and that is war. And it is an alliance to which the United States has, rightly or wrongly, declined to be a party—an abstention of vital concern to Britain.

THE NEW WORLD

Why is the abstention of the United States of such concern to us? The reason is that the United States belongs to the new World and in the British Empire the New World has already not only balanced but outweighed the Old World. Before August, 1914, the Foreign Secretary in London could speak "for" the British Dominions and India. Now he can only speak "with" the British Dominions and India. In diplomacy our Foreign Office is no longer a trustee for others, but a partner with them. At the Imperial conference last year the Foreign Office was told plainly that engagements to fight for other nations must not be held to involve dominions, situated thousands of miles away, with their own lives to live and their own problems to face. Excluding sentiment from this analysis, the dominions and India no longer fear the disturbing activities of Germany. But they are only too conscious of what Europe has cost them in blood and treasure. On a policy of conciliating Europe and reconstructing her prosperity, Britain can carry the British Empire. But not on a policy which compels France to arm her territories in the black continent of Africa for future quarrels in the white continent of Europe.

With Japan reported to be ready to diminish her army, with the entire English-speaking world already disarmed on land, except for troops as a police reserve, with mid-Europe, Latin America and the European neutrals virtually disarmed and with an offer to disarm from Russia, it is impossible for Britain to pledge her dominions to a military convention with France at a moment when France at Genoa imposes on thirty nations her sole veto against even an allusion to the subject of disarmament. Her case is one on which Britain and her dominions consider that they have a right to comment before, here and now, they commit their peoples to an interminable feud between Frank and Hun.

There is another consideration, not less grave, which Britain cannot ignore. The Anglo-French Entente, before the war, was accompanied by a similar entente with Russia. The Entente with Russia secured the external relations of India. The two Ententes together thus assisted the tranquility of Asia. That position is today wholly changed. Acting with France has meant for Britain acting against the Russian revolution. It has not destroyed Lenin and Trotzky but it has evoked the formidable possibilities of ultimate Russian nationalism. Britain is not Bolshevist. Her very labor leaders have condemned Bolshevism as an industrial system. But her fear is that when this system has the value of the assets which they salvage. In a financial reconstruction all liabilities have to be considered. But Britain holds that this is a subject for banks not bayonets, and if France uses the latter it looks today as if she would have to act alone.

NO ANTAGONISM TO FRANCE

Assuming that there is no longer a living and actual Entente what will be the position? The idea that Britain will act against France or inspire others to so act may be dismissed as illusory. The whole essence of the British position is that she wants Europe to be, not a chessboard with black squares for one's enemies and white squares for one's friends, but, as Lords Salisbury and Rosebery used to say thirty years ago, "a concert," in which nations overcoming the animosities of the past will act together for the future. I shall have written in vain if I have failed to make it clear that Britain, so far from wishing or anticipating a quarrel with France, her nearest neighbor, is seeking to avoid all quarrels. At this moment she is taxed to pay what is in effect the interest on the portion of France's debt to the United States which Britain underwrote. The criticism against Lloyd George has always been that he sided too much at Versailles with Clemenceau against the wiser counsels of Woodrow Wilson. It is the firm conviction of British statesmen that France will be safeguarded and not endangered by the suppression of militarism in Europe. Today the French arm stands alone. By all the teachings of history, if it continues thus to stand, there will be nations on the continent of Europe that will be provoked, as passed away she may be left with a hostile Russian people flanking the frontiers of India. There is no pretense that French policy is compatible with friendship, as Britain understands the word, for the Russia of tomorrow. France has now the big army on her side, but India has the big army on the other side of her frontiers. It is a big army, which France herself, at Washington, described as formidable. To drive that army into the trained hands of an unreconciled Germany when there is, at least, on paper, a Russian proposal to demobilise, would be, in the opinion of Great Britain, a gross betrayal of the Indian people, who are today complaining of what militarism costs them.

It is not here necessary to discuss at length the vexed questions affecting reparations and debts, due to governments and persons by Germany and Russia. There is one characteristic of all these claims which, from the British standpoint, must dispose of them. Nothing of this money is due to the dominions beyond the seas or to India, and to call upon these distant countries to shed their blood a second time, as bailiffs, to collect the debts of others, is, at lowest estimate, a strong order. And, as we all know, the citizen youth of Canada, Australia, South Africa, New Zealand and India are not available for the purpose.

In the case of Russia, which made enormous sacrifices for the allied cause in the earlier years of the war, the justice of some, at least, of the claims is not apparent, especially to Liberal and Labor opinion in Britain. Be that as it may, the financial aspect of the case appears to Britain to be much the same, only on a larger scale, as that which confronted Europe during the French revolutionary period and there is, in her view, one sure rule established by experience. It is that armies when collecting debts always cost more than they think, into giving France something to fight.

The prophets are confident that Lloyd George must now appeal to the country—and an election in June is predicted. Elections are notoriously undiplomatic and if, in 1918, the slogans were "Hang the Kaiser" and "Make the Hun pay," we may hear some plain speaking in Britain of another kind before many weeks are over. Led by The Morning Post, there will be Tory diehards who will severely attack Lloyd George. Even Lord Grey, with his strong zeal for a League of Nations, thinks that France has been unwisely handled by the new diplomacy. But, on the main issue, namely, whether Europe is to be united for the future or divided over the past, my belief is that Lloyd George will, despite all errors of domestic policy, carry the nation. If he continues in office, it is obvious that he will have taken a mandate to act in Europe, if need be, without the co-operation of France. That would mean the organisation of Central Europe and Russia, under Anglo-Italian leadership, on commercial lines, and with a constant endeavor to persuade France to be associated with the effort, including, as it would do, a relief from the burden of armaments. To what extent France, on her side, would gather neutrals into her camp, it is too early to say. At present, her only certainty appears to be Belgium, and it must not be taken for granted that, if Belgium be bound by treaty to share in France's military measures, she will also obtain the former British guarantee. The belief in France that Lloyd George will be, as it were, dismissed from office by Poincare is not one for which much foundation in Britain can be discovered. Indeed, what Britain on her side, thinks, is that Poincare's policy and influence, both at Genoa and at Washington, have proved too expensive to be wholly palatable, at any rate, to the taste of French bankers.

Children Cry for Fletcher's

CASTORIA

Fletcher's Castoria is particularly a preparation for Infants and Children made agreeable to the taste, acceptable to the stomach and pleasant in its action. It has been in use for over thirty years and has always been one of the most highly esteemed of all cathartic preparations. It has one great advantage over other preparations of its kind in that while it opens the organs readily and completely, it does not have a tendency to produce subsequent constipation so much to be dreaded.

It was only after years of research in the fields of herbs and roots for a combination of purely vegetable matter that would have all the virtues of Castor Oil, without its disagreeable, nauseating properties, especially when used for infants or children, that the formula used in Fletcher's Castoria was found, and which for over 30 years has proven its worth. Try it.

Save the Babies.

Infantry mortality is something frightful. We can hardly realise that of all the children born in ivilised countries, twenty-two per cent., or nearly one quarter die before they reach one year, thirty-seven per cent., or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen! We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save many of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy, retard circulation and lead to congestion, sickness, death. To avoid any possibility of giving your child opiates, or narcotics of any kind, keep Fletcher's Castoria in the house, and Save the Babies.

On Making Sure
There is nothing like making sure where one's health is concerned. Good health is the best guarantee that Life shall be a success. Now it is well-known that digestive disorders are the cause of more cases of ill-health than any other class of ailment. The digestive system is so extensive, so complex and so hard-worked, that its liability to derangement is not astonishing. Happily, however, many digestive ailments can be easily remedied. Happily, too, many digestions need never go wrong. You can make reasonably sure that your digestion will not fail you, even under trying conditions, if you get into the excellent way of taking Beecham's Pills. This "Wonderful Medicine"—as it has been called—does really work wonders with the digestive system. Beecham's Pills impart tone to the stomach, regulate the action of the liver and kidneys and gently stimulate the bowels into healthy activity. Get into the habit of making sure. Have recourse to Beecham's Pills at the first sign of digestive trouble. Make sure of your health by taking
Beecham's Pills.

Mexico To Begin Paying In 1923

(Reuter's Service)

New York, June 17.—The agreement on Mexico's debt is subject to the approval of President Obregon. It covers securities of a face value of G. $500,000,000, the interest on arrears of which is approximately $20,000,000. Cash payments of current interest will begin on January 2, 1923 from a special fund to which will be paid the oil export taxes and the surcharge on the gross receipts of the National railways. All payments of back interest will be waived. Overdue coupons will be deposited with the trustee and receipts for coupons will be amortised without interest over a period of time, this arrangement being practically the cancellation of part of the back interest. The Mexican railways will be promptly returned to private management and the Mexican Government will assume all railway debts not already guaranteed by it. In order to give time for the full resumption of all cash obligations all classes of bondholders shall agree to a temporary suspension of sinking fund rights, etc., for a period of five years.

HARDING HEARS FILIPINO PLEA FOR FREEDOM

President Invites Mission To Another Conference

(China Press Service)

Washington, June 18.—The parliamentary mission from the Philippine Islands was received by President Harding at 12:15 today. Quezon read the memorial with minute care and during the reading, President Harding showed emotion and great interest. After the memorial was read, the President said.

"I will be unjust to you and unfair to myself if I give you my answer now. Congress is the only one authorised to solve the problem submitted in your memorial.

"It will not be improper for me, however, as President of the United States of America to announce the policy of the administration to be followed on the Philippine question. I invite you therefore for another meeting to be held next Thursday at ten o'clock."

Evidently Quezon is the strongest Filipino advocate for independence. He is well estimed by President Harding and the American public. Quezon, side by side with President Harding, was photographed as well as Speaker Osmena and the mission members. They seem to be close friends.

The Philippine memorial stated that immediately prior to the coming into power of the present administration, the Philippine question was in evolution. During the fifteen months which have elapsed since March 1921 the situation has remained the same with the same stable government.

It compared the fulfillment of the stable government requirement of the Philippine Islands to McKinley's definition of the stable government to Cuba. It quoted the Wood-Forbes report to the effect that "The Supreme Court of the Philippine Islands has the respect and confidence of the Filipino people."

To their courts the United States therefore is insuring ability to maintain order and preserve law. The desire for independence is not born of ingratitude to the United States nor the lack of appreciation of the risks and dangers of inernational life.

It is the logical outcome of more than twenty years of patient labor jointly by Americans and Filipinos. Further delay in the fulfilment of the American pledge contained in the Jones Law will only result in injury to the best interests of both peoples concerned. Any danger of foreign aggression was eliminated by the Washington Conference, the memorial said.

To convey gratitude of the Philippine people for the interest toward the cause of independence on the part of the last administration, the Philippine mission will pay their respects to ex-President Wilson in Washington after their official engagements are completed. The mission goes to New York next week.
